"Thoroughly cooking foods of animal origin such as beef, eggs, fish, lamb, milk, poultry or shellfish reduces the risk of food-borne illness individuals with certain health conditions may be at higher risk if these foods are consumed raw or uncooked."

In 1952, Rolly and Ella Cook bought the Dixie Bar that sits in the same spot as what is now the Skyline (See the picture right next to the Skyline Cage). The Dixie Bar was unique, as it was definitely a family place where neighbors gathered to eat a sandwich, enjoy a drink and pleasant conversation, and just catch up on gossip with Mom and Pop Cook. They were known for their delicious ham sandwiches, friendly atmosphere, and the weekly boxing match on the black and white television. Their special project "Cooks Book's" raised many hundreds of dollars. The Cooks received donations of books from people in all parts of Southern Nevada, and they would sell or lend the books. All proceeds would go into the local Henderson community. The Cooks' project was such a boost to the community that when a new street needed to be named, it was called Rolly Street, which is less than half a mile up Boulder Highway.

John Ligouri bought the Dixie Bar when the Cooks retired in 1960. He renamed it Ligouri's and kept the ham sandwiches flowing. In 1964, John Ligouri and Joseph Antonio built the Skyline Casino to replace the Dixie Bar structure after successfully acquiring a gaming license for the new location of their business. They opened with three 21 tables, one craps table, 30 slot machines, and two poker tables. The Grand Opening was November 1st of that same year and was celebrated by a free buffet, free draught beer, an orchid for every lady and a cigar for every man. It was a three day celebration during which Ligouri provided free cab rides home to all the customers.

The Skyline was closed in 1965 when Ligouri went back to Des Moines. He returned to Henderson in 1969 and re-opened the Skyline with partners Frank Kish and Gene Munari.

In 1974, Frank's son, John C. Kish, bought fifty percent of the business from Ligouri; within a year he bought the other half including all the property, and became sole owner. Mr. Kish made multiple expansions throughout his tenure, including a new state-of-the-art kitchen and a brand new dining room; a new entertainment lounge was added and the bar was enlarged. He also added to what was then the Sky Motel.

In 2003 John Kish sold the Skyline Casino to Jim Marsh, an established Southern Nevada entrepreneur who pledged to rehire all 275 employees, make minor cosmetic improvements and keep the same local casino operation. Under the management of both John Kish and Jim Marsh, the Skyline Casino has maintained a reputation of giving back to the community, supporting organizations such as the Henderson Boys and Girls Club and the Down Syndrome Organization for Southern Nevada.

In 2013, the Skyline celebrated its tenth year anniversary of Jim Marsh ownership. As Mayor Andy Hafen states in the Skyline Tenth Anniversary Day Proclamation, "the Skyline Casino is known for its reasonably priced, quality food, liberal slot machines and 'old Vegas' personality that keeps customers feeling welcomed and appreciated"
